An exceptional Product Manager with strong insurance industry experience, who is looking for her next permanent role ideally within an established start up organisation where she can add value and continue to grow her career.

- An exceptional Product Manager with strong insurance industry experience, who has successfully launched three products for this well-known organisation from conception to production.
- 1 year's line management experience for two product owners where she was responsible for appraisals, 1-1's, general coaching and has also promoted people into Product Management.
- She is extremely passionate about innovation and loves building something new.
- She is a fantastic communicator, a confident decision maker with a vivacious personality and I highly recommend her for interview.
